Getting you back on track

A fire at a power generation plant located 95 km away causes the power to go out at your location. The information from the local authority notes that the power outage will last at least two days, but could be up to a week. The initial outage already damaged the stock you had on hand, and with a delivery upcoming for a large order, you decide to temporarily relocate to a second location with power, but will incur moving costs and rental fees.

With EDGE Complete, you're covered for the loss of stock at your location, and will be reimbursed for your expenses to use the second location to keep your business running in the meantime.
