1. ROADSIDE ASSISTANCE SERVICES PROVIDED

We will arrange for and cover the costs of the following roadside assistance services, subject to any additional charges or conditions outlined below.

1.1. Battery boosting

The assistance service will boost your automobile's battery. If the automobile fails to start, it will be towed as outlined in 1.2.

1.2. Towing due to mechanical breakdown

In the event of a mechanical failure, if your automobile cannot be driven despite attempts by our assistance service to start it again, it will be towed to any repair shop you choose within a 50 kilometre radius of the initial breakdown. Additional charges will apply if there is no repair shop within a 50 kilometre radius or if you choose to have your automobile towed to a repair shop outside of the 50 kilometre radius.

1.3. Gas delivery

If your automobile runs out of gasoline, the assistance service will deliver free of charge an emergency provision of gasoline (up to 10 litres) to allow you to drive to the nearest service station. Your automobile may also be towed as outlined in 1.2.

1.4. Tire change

If your automobile has a flat tire, the assistance service will install your spare tire if it is in good condition. If this is not the case or if you do not have a spare tire, your automobile will be towed as outlined in 1.2.

1.5. Lockout assistance

If your keys are locked in your automobile, the assistance service will attempt to gain entry to your automobile. Your automobile will be towed as outlined in 1.2 if your keys are not in your automobile or if the assistance service is unable to gain entry.

1.6. Extraction of stuck automobile

The assistance service will extract the automobile if it is stuck, provided that it is safely accessible and near a road that the assistance service is permitted to access and that is used regularly for vehicular traffic. Additional charges may apply if special equipment or additional personnel are required to extract the automobile.

2. CONDITIONS AND SERVICE LIMITATIONS FOR ROADSIDE ASSISTANCE

2.1. To take advantage of any roadside assistance services, you must first contact us as outlined in Section 5 before taking any action.

2.2. Additional charges will apply, according to the rates set by the assigned service provider, if the automobile is towed more than 50 kilometers from the location of the initial breakdown, or if you insist on equipment that we deem unnecessary.

2.3. Roadside assistance will not be provided if the automobile is in an area that is not used regularly for vehicular traffic, if the assistance service is prohibited from accessing the automobile, or if the automobile cannot be accessed safely.

- If you make a request for roadside assistance and subsequently cancel the request or do not require the service.

2.5. We may deny roadside assistance services, where the service provider believes they may encounter abusive, intoxicated or violent drivers or passengers.
